

Hungarian operator 4iG Group and Greece's Grid Telecom have signed a Memorandum of Understanding to explore joint development of cross-border telecommunications and digital ...

Central and Eastern Europe is shifting from fragmented markets to regional telecom structures. As operators consolidate and accelerate AI-driven infrastructure, the region is emerging ...

Mobile Telesystems PJSC, PJSC MegaFon, Beeline Russia, Tele2 Russia, and Kyivstar JSC are the top 5 Telecom Operators companies in Central and Eastern Europe in 2022 by mobile subscriptions.

The country's telecom regulator is ANCOM. Following the acquisition of Telekom Romania Mobile by Vodafone and Digi in October 2025, the market has consolidated into three main players.

Arthur D. Little's new report, "Space for Creativity: Innovative Solutions in Central and Eastern European Telecommunications", has revealed that operators in CEE have often deployed new innovative ...

The Europe telecom market refers to the industry that provides communication services such as voice, data, and internet connectivity across European countries through fixed and wireless ...

This report examines key drivers and provides comprehensive telecoms market forecasts for Central and Eastern Europe and for 16 individually modelled countries.

The report on the Telecommunications industry in Central and Eastern Europe (covering Poland, Romania, Czech Republic, Hungary, Slovakia, and Croatia) analyses key trends shaping the sector ...

As the dust settles, one thing is clear: Eastern Europe's telecom landscape is undergoing a seismic shift, with cash-rich Gulf investors leading the charge and reshaping the regional...

The European Commission has formally recommended that member states keep Huawei and ZTE out of their connectivity infrastructure. The same restrictions are now moving toward ...

Telecom Eastern Europe

Web: <https://prospettivacasa.eu>

